

JULY 1– JULY 30, 2019

Lynn Janigan, BFA

Often exploring new directions, either with the content or medium, Lynn relies on strong drawing skills, an interest in the human form, a keen sense of observation, and an attraction to subtle tonal values. These facets, inherent in her process, often develop into her signature haunting images. Lynn's art has found its way into several private collections, has garnered awards, and is represented by King St. Gallery in Niagara-on-the-Lake

It is small gestures and movements that we see the detail of life. These gestures, often familiar and perceived at once, allow us, and connect us with, one another through a simple recognizable moment. My work seeks to capture the emotional inner landscape as it is juxtaposed upon the grander natural outer world. Using old and/or current photographs taken from family and regional subject matter, the captured pose or gesture acts as a catalyst to form memories captured in time. The expressive use of colour, mood and mystery invite the viewer to dwell upon the paintings just a moment longer, so the less immediate emotions may be addressed.
